NAN PATTERSON WEEPS IN HER MOTHER'S ARMS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—"Mother, I'm free to go," the innocent 2-year-old daughter of the accused said today as she rushed into the widespread arms of her gray-haired, sweet-faced old mother at the Patterson home, No. 1,462 Highland avenue.

For five minutes the "Florence" girl, for eleven months and more in the Tombs on the charge of the murder of "Cresus" Young, snuggled in those arms which had held her since she was born.

She was the only child of the two women, the cheeks of both women. It was the pathetic seal certain on one of the most dramatic death mysteries America has ever known.

Accompanied by her father and Mr. and Mrs. J. Morgan Smith, her brother-in-law and sister, Nan Patterson arrived here today at 7:20 o'clock. When the train pulled into the station the party was still sleeping, and it was not until 7:50 o'clock that Nan emerged from the car.

At the station by the name of the station by Nan's brother, whom she greeted affectionately.

"I am very glad, awful glad to be back home again," was her only remark as the train pulled into the station and she and were driven rapidly to the Patterson home. A crowd waited patiently until the train pulled into the station and the carriage started, cheered her several times, and a smile.

Kate's three sisters, her brother and three little girls, daughters of the other Patterson sisters, all awaited Nan's coming. The mother and father of the girl and the mother was al-

HIT PORT ARTHUR MINE, BRITISH STEAMER SUNK

TOKIO, May 13.—The British steamer Sobralense, bound from New Chwang, China, to Kobe, Japan, struck a mine off Port Arthur and sank immediately. All the Europeans on board the steamer were rescued in boats from Port Arthur. It is believed that several of the crew and several negro passengers were drowned.

It is alleged that the Sobralense was inside the zone which ships had been warned to avoid.

26 JEWS SLAIN IN MASSACRE

ST. PETERSBURG, May 13.—The latest reports in regard to the casualties in the massacres of Jews in the province of Volhynia says that at Jitomir sixteen persons were killed. The reports state that the bodies of the victims, in some cases, were horribly mutilated.

HOW LOVE OPENED HER PRISON BARS

One of the strangest stories of real life New England has ever known.

The romance of a girl of remarkable beauty who escaped to the outer world with the aid of her lover after a lifetime imprisonment.

A story so full of amazing and romantic details, never before made public, as to prove again the virtue of the hackneyed saying that truth is stranger than fiction.

It happened right here in this work-a-day corner of the world and will be told to-morrow in full for the first time in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Police of Santa Fe and Kansas City Probe Deep Into Death of Former Tammany Chieftain's Youngest Son---Knockout Drops for Robbery Is Theory---Father Cables That He Is Not Coming to America.

Herbert N. Croker's mysterious death last night in a Santa Fe Railroad train between Kansas City and Newton, Kan., is believed to have been caused by opium which he smoked in a Chinese den in Kansas City, or by a drug in a drink which he took in a saloon after leaving the opium joint.

Charles Woodson, a negro porter of the Coates House in Kansas City, who accompanied Croker to the Chinaman's, and who afterwards put him into the car where he died, has been arrested by the police of Kansas City.

A coroner's jury which was impaneled at Newton heard the testimony of some of the trainmen. The testimony of the men examined went to show that the young man was not drunk, but that he acted as though he had been drugged. An autopsy will probably be performed on the body, but this may be delayed until the arrival of the brother of the dead man from New York.

Croker was about twenty-three years old and the youngest son of Richard Croker, the former leader of Tammany Hall, who was summoned from England within a year upon the occasion of the tragic death of his oldest son, Frank H. Croker, who was killed while driving his automobile in Florida. A cable from Richard Croker, who was located at Sandy Point, a remote spot in the Dublin Mountains today, stated:

"Influencing today's legislation."

CORONER BEGINS CROKER INQUIRY

NEWTON, Kan., May 13.—A coroner's jury, lastly convened, is looking into the reported case of a man who was found dead to the conductor at Peabody.

"LOOKED NEARLY DEAD."
J. M. Garrett, a hokanum, said he first saw Croker after the train pulled out of Topeka. He looked very pale and apparently was nearly dead. There was no smell of liquor about him. Passengers told him that another man brought Croker to the train at the depot in Kansas City, Mo., and that he was nearly dead.

The members of the train crew were excited by the noisy arrivals. A. J. Jader, the train conductor, told of finding Craker in the chair shortly after leaving Kansas City in a stupor and sobbing loudly. He could detect an odor of liquor on Craker's breath. Craker was taken into a room and placed in a chair. Craker was taken into a room and placed in a chair. Craker was taken into a room and placed in a chair.

2 LONDON MEN DROWNED FROM A CANOE

Willard G. Green and Herbert
M. Reed Were Fishing in the Concord River.

BOTH BODIES RECOVERED

Willard G. Green, superintendent of the Lexington & Boston Street Railway, and Herbert M. Reed, both of Lexington, were drowned in the Concord River near West Bedford, Mass., last night.

Just how the accident occurred is not known. They left home early yesterday on a fishing trip to the Concord River. Just before dark their canoe was found, overturned and empty, near the cattle bridge. The Bedford police and a local fisherman, who happened to be out, were sent to the river to search for the bodies. They were found in the morning. The bodies were recovered and taken to the morgue. The cause of the accident is being investigated.

JAP FLAGSHIP STRANDED IN PARIS REPORT

Science's New Incubator Butterflies

A new species of butterflies artificially produced. What could be more picturesque than such an idea? Nothing, surely, and yet this marvel is being accomplished in New York by an entomologist of note. Butterflies, new and gorgeous colors are being created out of hand. Others are being brought into being which have never been seen on earth for tens of thousands of years, and still others are being evolved, which will not exist in nature perhaps for tens of thousands of years to come. Science has solved a puzzling mystery, and the story of how it accomplishes the wonders described is a fascinating one, and is told in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Ten Ways to Spend Your Vacation.

Every one wants to get the greatest possible benefit in health and the greatest possible amount of enjoyment out of his vacation. The great majority of people are workers and are obliged to crowd their fun and their health seeking into two weeks of summer time. Do you know how to make the most of that precious fortnight? In Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN you will find a list of hints that will help you.

The Care's Last Home Lies in a Pious Pilgrimage.

Again the czar will prostrate himself before the bones of St. Seraphim. Some time within the next month he will make the pilgrimage to the Monastery of the Russian prisoners in the wilderness of Siberia, and will pray at the shrine for victory, where he believes his grandfather for so long awaited. The story is illustrated by photographs taken during the last visit of the czar to Siberia and includes the most striking photograph of the czar and Czarina ever taken.

A 20th Century Alchemist Who Says He Can Turn Silver Into Gold.

Turning silver into gold, that romance of ancient chemistry called alchemy, has always been chased by modern science with perpetual motion and the elixir of life, as a dream. Yet one of the foremost of American inventors, Professor Rudolph Melville Hunter, who has been granted 360 patents at Washington, says he is turning silver dollars into gold. He is an alchemist of the 20th century, and as president of a $25,000,000 concern, he is building a half million dollar factory in Philadelphia to manufacture gold by the ton. He tells his own story of his discovery in Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

Amazing as it is to think, it is the unofficial belief of diplomats who are looking the scenes of the history of the Kaiser, that he is the secret instigator of a plot to subvert four great powers in a war almost certain also to involve every other nation. Whether you agree with this theory or not, you will find what President T. J. Kane, one of the foremost statesmen of the world, has to say to your reading.

WILD BILL DONOVAN CARDED FOR TIGERS COLLINS WILL BE BACK IN GAME

BY A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Staff Correspondent of the Boston American with the Team.

DETROIT, May 12. Field 19. Young will attempt the task of taking the lead between this afternoon, and against to him will doubtless be "Wild Bill" Donovan. After today's game "Cy" will go to his home in Philadelphia, and into the line in Cleveland on Tuesday. Dimes will play the Sunday game in Dayton and Tatum will go in on Monday if he is able to do so. The latter was confined to his room all day yesterday with an attack of cramps. He has been suffering from this complaint off and on for some time, and has been under a doctor's care. In case the attack should recur, it is probable that he will not play on Monday.

Collins Will Get Into Game.

Collins will get into the game again this afternoon, his physician having given permission to do so. The score on his last game was 1-0. He was in a large "A" position in the lineup, and was very successful in his play. He was very successful in his play, and was very successful in his play. He was very successful in his play, and was very successful in his play.

Transfer of Games.

The Detroit management has succeeded in getting President Taylor's consent to a transfer of all the dates but one of the next trip. The Bostonians are scheduled to play here on July 23, 25, 26 and 27, and on the 28th at Detroit. The game on the 28th will be the last of the season. The game on the 28th will be the last of the season. The game on the 28th will be the last of the season.

OWEN MORAN WINS OVER DOUGHERTY

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 13.—Owen Moran, champion boxer of England, defeated Danny Dougherty of this city at the first appearance in this country. The Englishman had the better of the contest in every round except the first and fourth, in which Dougherty gave as good as he received.

Moran made a very favorable impression on the spectators with the exception that he was blooded several times. For the first time in his career, Moran was knocked out by Dougherty's face.

REALLY beautiful hair—and its healthy and well-cared-for condition—makes a woman a beauty. It is the crown of her head, and it is quite capable of becoming nearly a plastic face.

With a luxuriant and abundant growth of hair, a woman's face is made more attractive. It is the crown of her head, and it is quite capable of becoming nearly a plastic face.

Many women who have naturally long hair have ruined them either by their lack of care or by using for them the wrong oil.

It would be impossible to estimate how many fine heads of hair have been spoiled in the course of the business hairdressing and, indeed, much of the hairdressing is to be ascribed to the hairdressing.

A hairdressing salon is a place where the hair is treated with a variety of oils and lotions. It is a place where the hair is treated with a variety of oils and lotions.

TELLING STORIES TO CHILDREN; A WOMAN'S NOVEL PROFESSION
Expert Advice on How to Interest
the Young

CHILDREN who never have stories told to them are mentally starved. Fairy tales, stories of animal living and people living give richness to their lives, and give them a sense of the world.

Bryant of Puckney street has this theory about children, and is in a position to verify it for her readers. It is that of telling stories to little children.

Sometimes Miss Bryant transforms a book story into a birthday party by her simple, interesting way of telling it. Often she gives stories children a sense of the world.

At a Christmas tree given in a big hall, the little children were told the story of the three little pigs.

While telling this story she also told the story of the three little pigs. It was a very interesting story.

Final Candidates for Bright Sayings Prizes
Contest Closes To-night; Winners Will Be Announced in To-morrow's
Sunday American

THE Bright Sayings contest, which has fascinated Greater Boston for weeks, is practically over. No more "sayings" will be admitted to the judges.

This week's winners will be announced in to-morrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. There will be printed, too, a large number of photographs of successful candidates who have carried off honors in the contest.

Then, too, there will be printed a large number of sayings which have received honorable mention.

For the BIRD
I sent my little boy James for some birds. I did not give him the money for it, so the storekeeper said to him: "If you did not give me the money, I would not have given you the birds."

For the LIGHT SHONE
When our little daughter, about three years old, was in bed one night, and the moon was shining in her room, she said: "The light shone in my room."

For the PLY WAS FRESH
My son Pearl, three years old, was playing in his pocket for good luck. He thought: "The ply was fresh in my pocket."

For the TOP OF DE HILL SO
My little girl, aged three and a half years, was a pair of new shoes last Sunday. She said: "The top of de hill so."

For the WHISKERED TUBERS
My little girl, who is four years old, was a pair of new shoes last Sunday. She said: "The whiskered tubers."

For the TOOK IT COOLY
When my little daughter was four years old she fell from a chair into eight feet of water, and said: "I took it cooly."

For the HED GET RUSTY
My little girl, four years old, was playing in the yard with her toy horse and said: "The horse hed get rusty."

SCARLET LIES By X and Z, Authors of "Married to Mystery"

They were playing tennis for a hundred, and she always could not help winning.

It was about 11, when the women were beginning to make a move for bed, they went early to the hotel—a servant came to her and told her that Mr. Darrell wanted to speak to her.

She rose abruptly and checked a little gasp of surprise that came to her lips. "Mr. Darrell?" she exclaimed. "Is he here?"

"Yes, madam. He called to see Mr. Holland. He did not know that he had gone to town."

"Yes, but where is he?" "He has become suddenly unwell and unwell."

"Mr. Darrell is in the hall, madam. He would not come up. He has dressed over from the Towers. He says it is important."

"Tell Mr. Darrell that I will come in a minute, my dear," said Judith in a curt, dry voice. "That Judith came in a minute."

Making a clumsy excuse she left the card table and her hand to Mrs. Vickers, and hurried downstairs to the great hall. Mr. Darrell, seated up in a huge chair, stood by the great, blazing fire.

He looked at her, white face, great head, and her limbs seemed to give her strength here. For the first time in her life she experienced such physical fear.

"There was a look in the man's face such as I had never seen before. A look of intense, deadly, terrible, cold, and white glare and soul were in the grip of the man."

He looked at her with a stare, and she felt a sudden chill. "What is it?" she asked. "What is it?" he asked. "What is it?" she asked. "What is it?" he asked.

"What is it?" she asked. "What is it?" he asked. "What is it?" she asked. "What is it?" he asked. "What is it?" she asked. "What is it?" he asked.

Simple Rules for Care of the Hair
Fourth in a Series of Articles Written for the Boston American by an Expert

Many people who have naturally fine heads of hair have ruined them either by their lack of care or by caring for them in a wrong way.

It would be impossible to estimate how many fine heads of hair have been sacrificed in the wake of the too-harsh hair brush, and, indeed, many tresses have been sacrificed to the use of the hairbrush after brushes—since the unfortunate dictum went forth that a hundred strokes of the brush night and morning was a sovereign remedy for scunt, dry or falling hair.

It is a mistake to believe that to rub the hair with other than a gentle, caressing motion, its office is really only that of a comb. The hairbrush is a scourer, and the scalp over the hair and give it a safe, healthy life. The hairbrush is a scourer, wipe off the surface oil and the dust and dirt that have been accumulated on its surface.

The brush cannot penetrate through the scales of the hair, and it is a mistake to believe that it is very stiff, and in that case its use would be most harmful, as it would certainly take away with a large quantity of hair.

Why We Make This Offer.

This offer is made to acquaint you with our latest educational enterprise—a Co-operative Encyclopedia Club. So many of our readers and their friends have been unable to own a first-class Encyclopedia, owing to publishers' high prices, that a Co-operative Club has been formed to distribute a complete edition of the New Standard Encyclopedia and Atlas at about the actual cost of manufacture and on terms within the reach of all.

The New Standard Encyclopedia.

This Encyclopedia is the newest and best reference work on the market. It contains 8,500 pages, 3,000 illustrations, 150 colored maps and almost 900,000 topics. It is the latest work of the world's ablest specialists and is designed specially for the home, for busy men and women and for students of all ages. Our arrangement with the publishers is for only one edition, of which almost the entire number has been distributed. Those who would like to get a set should act quickly, as the Club will soon close.

The Free Book comprises a number of pages taken from the Encyclopedia, which we have had bound up so as to show just what the work is. It will be sent absolutely free of charge, together with full particulars of our great Co-operative Club, to those who detach and mail the accompanying coupon at once.
